"Over the last 25 years, I have worked with dozens of the world's most successful, skilled, and well-known consultants, coaches, and clinicians. These professionals span the fields of leadership, organizational development, clinical psychology, strategic management, personal development, and the human potential movement. Handel Group co-founder Lauren Zander is one of the most insightful, compelling, and transformative interventionists I have ever encountered in any domain. The ideas and principles underlying The Handel Method have fundamentally changed the way I see and experience the world."

"My work with Handel Group for the past 3 years has changed every aspect of my life for the better. They have helped me understand that I can do what I dream of doing, that no mistake is too serious that it can't be rectified and that my success will always be connected to actions that demonstrate my integrity for what I believe and my commitment for caring about and nurturing the people in my life."

Peter Stone, Ph.D.
Assistant Professor of Political Science
Stanford University

"Nothing is more important for college students than figuring out what kind of lives they want to lead. Sadly, many students rarely devote serious effort to this problem. And when they do give it a try, they often do not know how to do it right. They fail to realize that developing a great life requires skill. Fortunately, skills can be taught. Handel Group offers training in this area that can prove invaluable for many students as they look forward to the future."

Isaac de la Peña
Senior Technology Manager
at Nokia/Sloan Fellow
MIT School of Management

"Few things are more important in any organization today than integrity and candor. These also figure amongst the hardest things to nurture; many great firms have gone down the drain because their dysfunctional work practices precluded them from facing the hard facts. Handel Group does an amazing job at putting these issues in the spotlight and getting individuals to own up to the responsibility of authoring their future, empowering them not only to achieve a successful career but also a more rewarding life."

Margaret Rice, Ph.D.
NYU Langone
Departments of Neurosurgery and Neuroscience and Physiology

"I recently headed a multi-PI project grant, which I would not have had the confidence to tackle, had I not had the experience of the course. Overall, the well-structured process not only raised my awareness of limitations and obstacles to success, but provided practical exercises to help tackle and overcome these one by one."

Wendy Suzuki, Ph.D.

After three and a half years, she left Paradigm, intending to work on her own, when she was approached by Lauren Zander to come on board at Handel Group as a Corporate Consultant. Andrew Youmans

Investor and Operations Management-Consultant

Andy Youmans has a BA from Dartmouth College, an MBA from Harvard Business School, and co-teaches Cultural Imperative: The Ideal of Organizational Design with Professor Lowery at Stanford Graduate School of Business.

In 1989, while attending Harvard Business School (HBS), Andy joined his family's manufacturing business, Connecticut Spring (CSS) where he was a VP of Operations. After graduation, he sought to learn more about how to lead at CSS and began a multi-year investigation into the Toyota Production System (TPS). Andy believed that the TPS, although never deeply understood or codified, had been at the heart of Toyota's success. He fostered and participated in a relationship between HBS and the Toyota Supplier Support Center (TSSC) to do just that. In 1996, HBS published groundbreaking materials on the subject, which are still in use today.

After his success working with HBS and TSSC, Andy started his own operations management consulting firm, Yomo Consulting. Over the next 15 years, Andy worked with companies both large and small, in a variety of industries located around the world to implement the TPS. Since stepping down from Yomo in 2011, Andy has sought out and invested in companies where his experience at Yomo could add value. He currently maintains a small portfolio of companies as principal and works to support their activities.

Alyssa Rocco
Staff Coach

Alyssa is on a mission to create positive change in the world. She came to Handel Group seven years ago with a desire to change her career. After spending nearly a decade in the biotech industry participating in the launch of two successful life changing medicines for Cystic Fibrosis and Hepatitis C, she still felt like there was something missing in her life. After one session with a coach at Handel Group, she quickly discovered what was missing – she wasn't living true to her own dreams; she wasn't happy; and she didn't know how to become happy.

This realization inspired a journey: Alyssa became a coach, changed careers, learned how to date honestly, transformed the dynamic in her family, navigated addiction, and confronted how to create and maintain great relationships in her life. She brings a deep understanding of The Handel Method to the work she does with her clients and students at MIT.

Alyssa grew up in Boston and received her Bachelor's degree in communication, film and technical writing from the University of Massachusetts at Amherst and her Master's degree in Organizational Psychology from the Massachusetts School of Psychology. She is certified in process improvement techniques and six sigma practices. She is a dancer and practices 5 Rhythms dance. Alyssa lives in New York.
